What are sustainability features?

This fund is guided by binding sustainability commitments, which are defined in its investment strategy and legal documentation. These commitments ensure that specific sustainability principles and criteria are consistently applied throughout the investment process. They may include obligations to include defined sustainability features, exclude certain types of investments, and engage in active ownership activities such as engagement and voting. By adhering to these binding commitments, the fund ensures accountability and transparency in its approach to sustainability.

Active Ownership – engagements and voting

DPP Pension Extra DPP Pension Extra I

What is active ownership?

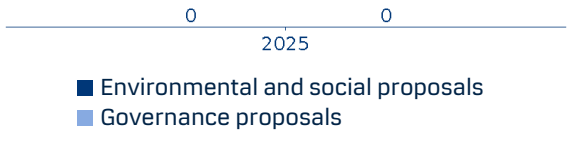
The product use active ownership as a measure to protect the value of our customers' investments and to manage the Principal Adverse Impact of the investments. In this product it is done through engagement with the companies we invest in and by voting at their general meetings.

Engagements

Danske Bank engages with issuers on financial, sustainability or other material topics. This is done to seek information or encourage better sustainability practices.

Voting

Voting is the exercise of ownership rights at the general meetings of companies in which the portfolios are invested. We vote on management and/or shareholder resolutions on corporate governance, environmental and social matters.



The figures are based on the 2024 SFDR report.

EU Taxonomy

What is the EU Taxonomy?

The EU taxonomy is a classification system that defines which economic activities are environmentally sustainable. It supports investments in activities that align with the EU's goal of net zero emissions by 2050 and other environmental goals.

Revenue: Total income generated from sales of products or services.
Capital Expenditures (CapEx): Long-term investments in assets like buildings, machinery or technology.
Operational Expenditures (OpEx): Daily costs to run the business, like raw materials, utilities or maintenance and repairs.
